THE PARTY

Below is an aerial view of a room in which a party is taking place. At this party, people with the same or similar interests have all gathered in the same corner of the room. In this exercise you will try to decide in which corners of the room you will feel most comfortable. “Let The Party Begin!”

People who have athletic or mechanical ability, prefer to work with objects, machines, tools, plants, animals, or to be outdoors.

People who like to work with data, have clerical/numerical ability, carry things out in detail, or following through on other’s instruction.

People who like to work with people to influence, persuade, perform, lead, and manage for organization goals or for future economic gain.

People who are artistic, innovative, and like to work in unstructured situations, using their imagination or creativity.

People who like to observe, learn, investigate, analyze, evaluate, solve problems and ask “why”.

Which corner of the room would you instinctively be drawn to as the group of people you would most enjoy being with during a party? Write the letter for that corner in the box.

After fifteen minutes, everyone in the corner you have chosen leaves for another party across town, except you. Of the groups that still remain, which group would you be drawn next. Write the letter for that corner in the box.

After fifteen minutes this group decides to leave for another party. Of the groups which remain, which one would you now enjoy being with during the party? Write the letter for that corner in this box.
