IN SEARCH OF CHARACTER

In Search of Character will spotlight the ten core virtues that help our youth develop into caring, respectful, responsible people who make choices based on what is right, rather than what is easy. This series will be supported with great video segments that share thoughtful, lively and revealing discussions with high school students around the country. Inspiring profiles of young people who exemplify the power of good character in the real world will help support a model of change that we can lead our youth to be a part of. Learn how to use the Socratic Method as a tool with your youngsters- leading them to discussions regarding ethical choices and moral values. Find out about ways to teach your youth lessons on integrity, courage, and trustworthiness. Get your hands on some great book titles to share with your youth that exemplify the virtues that help develop good character. The purpose of this series is to support parents, educators and others who work with young people in their efforts to achieve this vision: "Good character consists of knowing the good, desiring the good and doing the good..." "When we think about the kind of character we want for our youth, it is clear that we want them to be able to judge what is right and then do what they believe right, even in the face of pressure from without, and temptation from within." Quote by Dr. Thomas Lickona

2012 & 2013 Dates: NO CLASSES DECEMBER 26, 2012 & JANUARY 2, 2013
